22.02.2019

Danish-based energy trader, InCommodities today published its second annual report. Records show a 529% growth in earnings before tax to EUR 7.92 million. Return on equity landed at 84% and headcount reached 27 employees.

CEO Jesper Johanson explains:

"In 2018 we have taken InCommodities to the next level; growing the company from a start-up to an established energy trader across Europe. During 2018 we have extended our presence and capabilities within power trading and we have successfully built two new business units; Automated Solutions and Gas Trading.

Our European presence has grown significantly during 2018 as we have started trading power in two new countries and we initiated gas trading in six countries. By the end of the year, we were trading power and gas across more than ten different countries in Europe - including all the main energy hubs.

The greatest success of 2018 and the foundation of our growth are the 21 highly skilled employees we have added to our staff. The total headcount reached 27 employees by the end of the year, with accumulated experience in the energy markets of 150 years."

Further growth and consolidation in 2019

During 2018 InCommodities have successfully created an automated platform that enables the company to cost-efficiently scale their business going forward. Looking into 2019 InCommodities will use the platform to grow market shares in core European energy hubs and will consider expanding into emissions trading.
